LET'S POLICE OURSELVES

The suggestion that the policing of Narberth be handled over to Lower Merion Township is no great compliment to the Borough's councilmen.

Apparently the reason isn't one of economy or of greater facilities. It seems to stem from a feeling that the Borough cops are not hard-boiled enough with local citizens. One of the councilmen, who believes it would be a good idea, says that the policemen form friends too fast and then they fall in the habit of overlooking traffic violations or misdemeanors.

Well, it is our idea, that this problem of borough management should be put back in the laps of the councilmen for a solution. It is part of their management job, whether they get paid for their services or not, to see that Narberth has as strict law enforcement as they consider necessary. It is within their power, certainly, to check up on their own patrolmen. Also, it is within their power to have them fired if they fail to perform their duty. But, it is not within their rights as duly elected public officials, who voluntarily became candidates for office, to throw up their hands when they are faced with a knotty problem.

In the past, we have had foes who sought to destroy the entity of Narberth and merge it with the township that surrounds it. But, there is no reason why our governing council, elected to maintain the borough, should permit any of its members to move in the direction of another merger.

Only, uncontrollable crime conditions; the invasion of the Borough by gangsters or graft-ridden government at home would warrant the delegation of Narberth's police powers. None of these conditions exist in Narberth. Our home town is none the less law abiding than any of the hundreds of other suburban communities.

There are all degrees of law enforcement and there is a border line where good judgment must separate the wheat of human behavior from the chaff. We want our policemen to enforce the law but we want them to do it with common sense understanding of the types of people involved. We don't want to see a local Gestapo established which spends its time running around taking down automobile license numbers for minor infractions.

Perhaps, the councilmen who had this brilliant idea do not know how important policing is in the structure of municipal government. There is no municipal power that is as vital.

For better or worse let us buck up and run our own Borough. Let us forget what they have and what they do in Lower Merion even though the township does geographically surround us. Let us be ourselves. Let us stop crying poor mouth on government issues. Let us strengthen our faith in ourselves and preserve our inherited entity.

NEW ASH AND TRASH SCHEDULE LISTED

Scrap Metal, Paper And Rubber Are Still Needed

A new schedule for ash and trash collection in Narberth will go into effect December 6, it was announced this week by George B. Supple, superintendent of public works in the Borough.

Residents are urged to check the schedule with care, as numerous changes have been made. There will be no return or special trips, he said, due to the shortage of labor, gasoline and rubber.

To co-operate with the government's drive to collect scrap metal, rubber and paper, residents are asked to place such scrap in separate containers and put these out on the proper collection day.

The new schedule is as follows:
MONDAYS: Conway Ave., Stuart Ave., Price Ave. west of Dudley Ave., Windsor Ave., west of Dudley Ave., Narbrook Park, North Wynnewood Ave., Sabine Ave., west of Dudley Ave., Beechwood Lane, Berkley Rd., Homewood Ave., Langdon Lane, Wynnewood Court, Montgomery Ave., west of Essex Ave., Brynwood Manor, Shady La., Wynnedale Rd.

Paper Shortage Threatens War Effort

War production urgently needs waste paper and an extreme shortage of this material which has developed threatens seriously to handicap the war effort unless every available piece is turned in at once, according to Warren R. Roberts, chairman of the Advisory Committee on Salvage of the State Council of Defense.

The temporary drop in the demand for waste paper which occurred in 1942 has been replaced by a growing demand for this material in both war and essential civilian uses, the Committee explained. Millions of paperboard containers are being sent overseas to our fighting forces every week and waste paper is one of the chief raw material sources from which these containers and shipping materials are made.

AIR RAID SIGNALS CAUSE CONFUSION

No Red Alarm Was Sounded On Wednesday

The confusion from the air raid test on the morning of November 17, as reported to the office of the Lower Merion Council of Defense, was due to a misunderstanding of the signals.

The sounding of the blue signal, a straight blast for two minutes on the sirens, indicates an alert. If this is followed by the red signal, an undulating sound of the sirens, it means that there is a real danger threatened. In the tests heretofore called, the usual sequence has been: First blue, then red, then blue, and finally all clear.

On the morning of November 17, there was no red signal but the all clear followed the blue signal. It cannot be emphasized too strongly that in times of emergency usual routines can never be followed. The public, therefore, is reminded again of the purpose of the definite sounds on the sirens.

The blue signal, a straight blast for two minutes, means alert.

The red signal, an undulating sound for two minutes, means danger.

The white signal or all clear, a straight sound for fifteen seconds, may follow any blue signal whether the red is sounded or not.

"Horse Thieves" Have Annual Dinner; Hear Lieut-Gov. Bell

The annual oysters-oysters, and more oysters dinner of the Lower Merion Society for the Recovery of Stolen Horses and the Detection of Horse Thieves was held last Saturday night at Masonic Hall, Ardmore.

Luther Parsons, president of the Society for the past 28 years, presided at the dinner. Lieutenant Governor John C. Bell, of Wynnewood, was the principal speaker. He expressed the opinion that the future peace depends too much on the outcome of the war to make it practical to make blueprints now for the peace.

Other speakers were Father Kelly, of St. Colman's Church, Ardmore, and Edward Snow, principal of the Ardmore Junior High School.

REPORTS SHOW NEW SCOUTING INTEREST

Binns Addressed Annual Banquet of Scout Council

Boy Scouting on the Main Line reached additional groups and a larger number of boys in the past year, it was revealed at the annual dinner last night at the Narberth Methodist Church.

Figures compiled by William R. Oles, field scout executive, showed that there are now 29 Troops, eight Cub packs, and one Sea Scout ship along the Main Line, as compared with 26 Troops, six Packs and no Sea Scout ship last year.

The number of Scouts increased from 780 to 851 and the number of Cubs from 214 to 283, it was pointed out. The Scouts are served by 231 adult leaders and the Cubs by 59.

Merit badges completed increased from 409 to 750. There were 313 Tenderfoot Scouts, 271 Second Class Scouts, and 262 First Class Scouts, as compared with 254, 284 and 242 in these respective ranks a year ago.

C. Sumner Davis, activities chairman of the Main Line District, was toastmaster, and Arthur W. Binns, president of the Valley Forge Council, the principal speaker.

Other speakers were: L. B. Curtis, district commissioner; Dr. Charles A. Behney, chairman of the district executive committee; William R. Oles, district Scout executive, and Arnold Sorenson, Scout executive.

Dr. S. Edgar Downs presented awards. E. W. Barnes led the singing, accompanied by Mrs. Jack Wilson, Scout Dick B. Johnson, of Penn Wynne Troop 1, was bugler.

Price Control Up to the People

The price panel of the Ardmore War Price and Rationing Board is exerting every effort to secure compliance with pricing regulations in this area.

In a statement issued this week officials of the Board said:

"The Price Control Law—like every other law—cannot be successful unless everyone concerned does his share in observing the law—not only in letter, but in spirit. No amount of Government enforcement can maintain price levels alone. The big job of enforcement lies with the people themselves.

"To make price control even more successful, every American has to make it his own personal responsibility to keep down his cost of living—and his cost of doing business—by not paying more than the legal price."

Blood Appeal Got Splendid Response

Mrs. Leslie Mulford, the new chairman of the Red Cross Blood Donor Service at Ardmore, announced today that the emergency appeal for blood received splendid response from the community.

The Autocar Company, Narberth's Day, Bryn Mawr and Rosemont Colleges, St. Mary's Hall at Villanova, Upper Haverford Township, the Army Air Force Technical Training Command under the leadership of Major William E. Frey, all made contributions.

markers once.

Upper Darby got its lone touchdown on a 31-yard pass play, Gus Diegens to Frank Birmingham, late in the first quarter. The Royals reached the one-yard line at the start of the second half, but a bad pass from center cost them nine yards and thwarted their touchdown bid. L. M. took the ball away on downs on the 19 and the Royals were never a threat thereafter.

Lower Merion has one of the strongest offensive teams in its history, having rolled up 257 points in eight games while allowing the opposition 53. Radnor which will be outwitted and outmanned has a mediocre record of three victories and four, has scored but 61 points to 42 for its rivals.

The Raiders won their first game four weeks ago at the expense of victoryless Downingtown, 28-7. They then routed Friends Central, 20-0, and last Friday scored a mild upset by jolting Abington, 7-0.

While Lower Merion crushed Radnor under a 56-0 landslide last year and while the comparative scores this season are overwhelmingly in its favor, a crowd of some 2,000 expects to be on hand to see the renewal of the feud simply because nothing can be taken for granted when these two rivals get together.

Back in 1930 Merion needed only a victory in this winnow game to enjoy an undefeated, untied season. A Radnor club that hadn't won a game rose up to deadlock the Maroon, 12-12. The undefeated, untied Lower Merion club of 1932 had a terrific time winning by 13-8 over the Raiders. And who will ever forget how an underdog Radnor eleven handed Lower Merion a stunning 31-0 trouncing in 1940?

Regardless, Radnor's only hope this year appears to be on catching Lower Merion napping with a tricky aerial game. Upper Darby scored its only touchdown against the Maroon through the air. The Royals, with a much stronger team than Radnor, couldn't gain through the Maroon line and so it isn't likely that the Raiders will be able to do so.

Neither was Upper Darby's supposedly invincible line, which had yielded only one touchdown previously, able to cope with the Maroon forwards and the smashing ball-totting of Ted Hepke and Frank Basile, Lower Merion's brilliant backs.

Hepke blasted the Upi-Dah line apart in the middle and Basile went off tackle and around the ends at will. Together they gained 157 yards by rushing, accounted for all of L.M.'s points, each scoring twice.

PROPOSE ZIEGET FOR STATE AWARD

Recommendation is For Meritorious Civic Work

Lower Merion commissioners this week passed along a recommendation that Julius Zieget, North Ardmore commissioner, and former president of the Board, be given a State award for his civic services.

Their recommendation goes to the Pennsylvania State Association of Township Commissioners, an organization which annually confers the award on two deserving and outstanding persons.

Two years ago a posthumous award was given to Marvin Reynolds, Sr., former health officer for many years in Lower Merion Township.

Last year the State awards were given to Harry Fritschman, secretary of Haverford Township, and to Frank Morgan, Cheltenham Township commissioner.

This year, for the first time, a state-wide selection of two candidates will be made with a representative from eastern and western Pennsylvania.

Zieget, who was not a candidate for re-election, leaves the Lower Merion Commission at the end of the year with numerous civic achievements to his credit. This includes the rebuilding and resurfacing of City Line Ave.; the development of an extensive park and playground system and the construction of an incinerator.

Haverford's Route of West Chester Revives Hopes of Upset Victory Over Upper Darby on Thanksgiving Day

A few victories sure work wonders for one's morale.

Just a couple weeks ago every Haverford High Football fan viewed the approaching traditional Thanksgiving Day game with Upper Darby with gloom and foreboding. Hope was missing from the Haverford campus. Everyone was willing to concede that this was Upper Darby's year, that the Fords wouldn't have a chance in the final game.

But today every loyal Haverford rooster is brimming with hope, convinced that "we have a chance," that an upset next Thursday isn't impossible.

Successive Haverford victories over Lansdowne and West Chester, especially the impressive 25-0 verdict registered over the latter last Saturday, coupled with Lower Merion's smashing 35-6 victory over Upper Darby are responsible for the great change of mental attitude.

Haverford fans had cause for gloom originally because the Fords failed to register a single first down and took an 18-0 beating from Upper Darby in an early season exhibition contest that was arranged when both the Fords and Upl-Dahs had games canceled on the same date.

Lower Merion exploded the belief in Upper Darby's invincibility shared by some Haverford coaches, and especially proved that the Royals' supposedly superior line could be torn to shreds and outplayed as well as any other.

Haverford undoubtedly played its poorest game against Upper Darby and now there is a general suspicion that the 1-0 score was more the result of the Fords' weak play than it was Upper Darby's brilliancy.

Most hopeful of all to local fandom is the fact that Sammy Venuto, the hard driving sophomore, didn't play in the first Upper Darby game and that since he entered the lineup the Fords have steadily improved.

Venuto was the big gun in Haverford's rout of West Chester on the latter's gridiron. He ran 35 and 45 yards for touchdowns in the second and third periods, respectively, both times from kick formations that caught the enemy napping. He also added an extra point by taking a pass from Cal DiValerio.

Joe Trickett, whose steady improvement at end has been matched only by the increased efficiency of the team as a whole, started the Fords to victory when he blocked a West Chester punt early in the first period. The ball bounded into the arms of End Bob Yarnall in the end zone to a touchdown.

Neil Hodges accounted for the final score when he intercepted a pass and ran 20 yards into scoring territory in the last quarter.

West Chester was held to a single first down and never got past the 40-yards line. Haverford made eight first downs while completely outplaying the Chester Countains at every turn.

Despite Haverford's impressive showing in this game, Upper Darby will still rule a heavy favorite when it takes the field at Brook-

Should the Fords upset the dope, they would finish in second place in the Suburban Big Six, shoving the Royals into third, and would have a record of five victories, three defeats and one tie in Suburban Conference competition.

Haverford hasn't defeated Upper Darby since 1939 when the Fords completed an undefeated season with a 26-0 conquest. In the series which started in 1921, Upper Darby holds an 11-8 edge. Last year they battled to a 7-7 tie. Twice previously their meetings ended in deadlocks.

County Notes

The Registration Office at the Court House is engaged in purging the registration rolls of all persons who have not voted for two years, as is required by law. It is expected that the number to be removed for non-voting will run into the thousands. Before being finally removed, however, such persons will have opportunity for reinstatement by signing and returning a card to be sent them for that purpose. The office cannot accept new registrations until December 3, the end of the 30-day period following the Municipal Election.

First Sergeant John S. Magill, former district construction superintendent in the County Highway Department, was a visitor at the Court House last Friday. He is attached to an Ordnance Ammunition Company stationed near Gibbstown, N. J.

Bids will be opened by the County Commissioners and the Controller, on December 8, for printed forms and supplies of various kinds required by the County during 1944.

Montgomery County Controller Frank P. K. Barker, his deputy, Joseph Jervis, and his solicitor, Joseph Prince, will attend sessions of the Municipal and Local Finance Officers Association at Harrisburg this Friday and Saturday.

A total of 76 lots owned by the county were made available by the County Commissioners to residents for use as Victory Gardens during the past summer. Permission to use the lots was granted upon application.

HIGH NOTES

by DAVID MALICKSON
Class of 1945—Lower Merion High School

By DAVID MALICKSON

As the fall draws to a close and Mr. Winter pokes his head around the corner, one naturally turns his attention to the finale of the football season when Lower Merion meets Radnor. This year the classic game is scheduled to be played at Villanova Stadium. It is, however, classed as a home game for L. M. The kick-off, slated for 2 p. m., will start things rolling between the two teams.

A turnout as large or even larger than that at the Upper Darby game is expected, so a word to the wise is: Get to the field EARLY! Although Radnor is classed as a weak team and L. M. favored as the winner, one can never tell the outcome of this game until it is over. We mention this so as to lessen the Lower Merion rosters—the team dangerous over optimism of many will need your support in this game just as it has at others. The customary pomfrit held in the evening of the day the game is played, will, as last year, be dispensed with due to war conditions, stated Mr. Vincent Pearce, vice-principal. When asked what are the chances for a half day on Monday in the event that we do win, Mr. Pearce said that, as yet, had not been decided.

The annual Fall Prom will be held in the Down's Gymnasium on the evening of November 20, following the clash between Radnor and Lower Merion. The dance, which is informal, will start at 9.15.

Salute of the Week—goes to Barbara Egan of Home Room 209a, who contributed the most money, as a student, to the American Red Cross Drive held during the past two weeks. A junior, she contributed some $13 and thus placed her Home Room in the lead of the school. Due to her effort and others like her, it was possible for Lower Merion to collect $228, more than was ever contributed by L. M.

The Lower Merion Cross Country team placed second in a five school meet held at Marcus Hook on Friday, November 12. Paul Geary was the first runner from L. M. to cross the finish line. Paul ran the course in 12:50 to take second place for Ellem. He was preceded by Venezia, of Norristown, and followed

Charles Lee, literary editor of the Philadelphia Record, spoke at Tuesday's meeting. Discussing "Books I've Liked," he recommended Lin Yutang's "Between Tears and Laughter"; Pierre Van Passau's "Forgotten Allies"; Ilka Chase's "In Bed We Cry," and Sholem Asch's "The Apostle."

The Rev. George Emerson Barnes, pastor of the Overbrook Presbyterian Church, spoke on behalf of the United War Chest campaign.

Mrs. Charles H. McCarter, Jr., read a list of articles needed at Valley Forge Hospital, including bed lamps, radios, card tables and magazine subscriptions.

The next literature group meeting will be held December 7 at the clubrooms at 2 P. M. Mrs. F. M. Robb, president of the Junior Club, will review "Paris Underground." The latter half of the meeting will be devoted to a discussion of India under Relations Committee.

A benefit dessert bridge will be held at the clubrooms November 23 at 1 P. M.

Men's Night is scheduled for Tuesday, November 30, at 8 P. M. Milton Bacon, radio raconteur, will be the guest speaker.

SIMPLIFY GAS RATIONING

All "B" and "C" gasoline coupons issued after December 1 will be worth five gallons each, compared with the present value of two gallons for coupons of those types in the East and Midwest and three gallons in the far West. This means "B" and "C" books will contain fewer coupons than in the past, but each coupon will be good for more gallons than before. No increase in the amount of gasoline allowed.

CANNED LUNCHEON MEAT

Consumers will be able to buy more canned luncheon meat during the coming year, according to the War Food Administration. Canning of this product is encouraged because it prevents waste of good bits and trimmings of meat at packing plants.

TEMPORARY FOOD RATIONS

Service men on leave can get temporary food rations without the forms usually furnished by the armed services, according to OPA. In an emergency, application may be made on forms available at local ration boards.

REDUCE CHRISTMAS LIGHTING

The American people have been asked by the Office of War Utilities to confine Christmas lighting decorations to Christmas trees inside private homes. Saving of electricity will mean direct savings of fuel, manpower, transportation, and materials.

SCRAP DRIVE TO CONTINUE

The "Victory Scrap Bank" Drive, scheduled to end November 15, has been continued indefinitely. H. M. Fault, director of the Salvage Division of WPB said: "As long as the war lasts, there will be a continuing need for iron and steel scrap to keep the mills well supplied. The collection of iron and steel scrap from all sources must be a continuing operation."

HOW TO ADDRESS MERCHANT SEAMEN

Because letters from home are as big a factor in maintaining morale of merchant ship crews as they are with soldiers, blue-jackets, and marines, the War Shipping Administration has relaxed regulations to speed movement of mail. A seaman in a foreign port may advise his family and friends how to address mail to him by including the name of his ship in the letter enclosed in envelopes, but not on outside envelopes. To address a seaman, this form should be used: first line, seaman's name; second, name of his ship; third, "Care of Postmaster"; and fourth, New York, New Orleans, or San Francisco, according to the coast from which the addressee sails. Return address should appear in upper left corner and name of steamship line in lower left corner.

Successful Parenthood

MRS. CATHERINE CONRAD EDWARDS

Associate Editor, Parents' Magazine

Keep Youth Conscious of the Laws of Morality

No one interested in today's young people can overlook their evident need for spiritual guidance. Many of them, as shown by their letters from the fighting fronts, are finding for themselves something to believe in, something worth dying for if necessary. Indeed, it is they who seem to be bringing renewed faith to their parents.

But this upsurge of faith must be passed on to the children at home, and parents need help in doing this. That is one reason why we are disturbed over the fact that in a country where churches dot the landscape in every direction, we are told that 17,000,000 children have never been to Sunday school. The population of some small nations in the world does not exceed 17,000,000. We are seeing what regression into paganism has done for Nazi youth. Granted that Sunday school is not the final answer to a child's religious needs, that it is only one of many means for giving a child religious education, we still cannot help being alarmed over the decline of its influence in the lives of today's children.

If your children are not attending Sunday school, you'll find it very much worth while to make the effort to see that they do. Sunday schools are friendly gatherings and modern methods of religious teaching are full of interest as well as inspiration. For instance, the church was one of the first institutions to recognize the teaching possibilities of the motion picture. It is true that when we were children there were many incompetent Sunday school teachers—good folks who looked upon "taking a class" as their church work, but who knew little about teaching of any kind or of managing a group of boys and girls. But Sunday school teachers today are mostly trained for their work. You'll find that children really love going to Sunday school today, just as they enjoy going to school. If your church doesn't offer a Sunday school class exciting enough to interest youngsters then offer to teach one yourself! We hear a great deal about the importance of hobbies and the development of one's latent talents. Here is a large and fascinating field to be explored, for today, as we have said, there are projects in Sunday school education as thrilling and creative as those in our best day schools.

But, of course, a child's spiritual needs cannot all be met by church instruction no matter how excellent it may be. Nothing can take the place of the spiritual values parents must implant in their children. But do not make the mistake of old-time disciplinarians who presented moral laws as threats hanging over almost every type of enjoyment of life. Instead, we should teach our children that they cannot achieve happiness without obedience to the positive laws of morality. These moral laws do not exist to hamper and thwart our desires. I recall an explanation which impressed me; that an engineer who wants to build a bridge knows he must obey the laws of mechanics, but he doesn't consider those laws an unfortunate interference with his personal desires. He recognizes that the laws of mechanics are what make it possible for him to build the bridge. And the same thing is true of the moral laws. They make it possible for us to live an abundant life. They set us free to achieve what we really and truly want.

they were on strike, the most important thing is to get coal mined. They believe the people will demand something be done to curb the activities of the coal miners' union but that the government's first concern was, rightfully, to get the miners back to work no matter what the cost or how much bad feeling it might mean.

By LYTLE HULL

This Week IN WASHINGTON

The House committee has finally cut new taxes for 1944 down to two billion dollars from the original goal of 10 billion requested by President Roosevelt. The House itself may let the measure remain at this low figure, but the tax is apt to be rewritten and increased when it gets to the Senate.

The chief purpose for high new taxes, as emphasized by the President, was to take off some of the surplus purchasing power in our nation which was expected to lead to inflation. But it is agreed by most all authorities here that this purpose will not be accomplished by the new bill—particularly in the light of the new attitude of the war Labor Relations Board toward raising wages. If wages of labor are raised, as it is expected they will be, the increase in wages will amount to many millions more than the amount which will be added to taxes.

It is difficult for most analysts here who have studied the situation to understand the attitude of William H. Davis, chairman of the National War Labor Board, in saying, in a letter to Vice President Wallace, that labor, on the whole, has made heavier sacrifices on behalf of stabilization than any other group. For, according to the government's own figures, while living costs have increased 22 per cent since September, 1939, the weekly earnings of workers in manufacturing industries have risen 69.3 per cent.

Thus a $2,000,000,000 tax measure will appear to be of no use at all so far as staying off inflation is concerned and will make only a very light dent in our increasing national debt.

But Mr. Davis' statement indicates that his board wants the right to increase wages further and is ready to scrap the "Little Steel" formula which was aimed at preventing inflationary wage increases.

As soon as the government agreed to increase the wages of coal miners, after the mines again had been taken over by Uncle Sam, all labor relations experts here realized that the "Little Steel" formula had been sidetracked and that there would be trouble on all other labor fronts unless other Unions were given an opportunity to present their case for further increases in wages.

So it is likely, as a result of having given in to the coal miners, that wages now will be increased for all war workers and the increase will amount to much more than the next taxes which will be collected next year.

There are some Congressmen who argue that, although there is no justification for giving in to the coal miners, particularly while

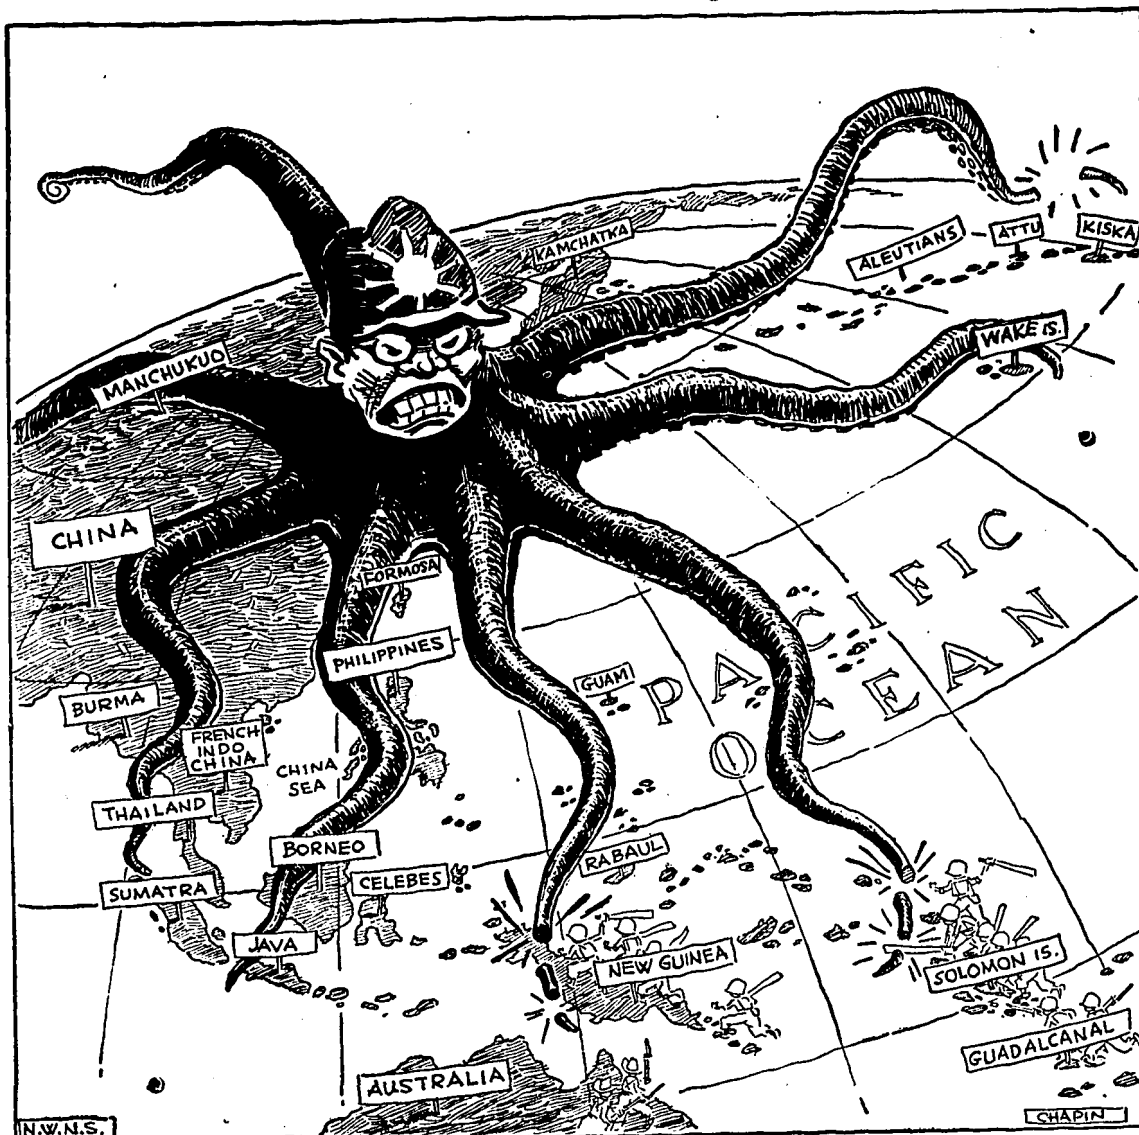

The German hope of a split in the United Nations line-up has been blasted by the announced results of the Moscow conference. The Germans now know that they face a war to the finish with little hope of stalemate unless some completely unforeseen happenings occur. Before the Moscow conference there were all sorts of rumors afloat to the effect that the United States and Britain were not in accord with Russia's war objectives. There was much talk about Russia making a separate peace with Germany; and there was—as usual—a good deal of surface friction between Britain and ourselves being fanned by enthusiasts on both sides of the Atlantic. It all made good editorial stuff for the German press and excellent morale sustainer for use in Herr Goebbels' propaganda organs.

Will the loss of this hope—for a break between the United Nations—shorten or lengthen the war?

Now it is probable that the German civilian population is unaware of the intense hatred felt for all people and things German, by the enemies who are slowly closing in around them. They are naturally not informed of the atrocities which are driving these enemies blood mad, and if they were kept ignorant of the vengeful hatred which their execution squads are creating against them, they might be more liable to quit when they realized they had nothing to gain by continuing the fight. Even their leaders might become weary and ready to lay down their arms and go home to peace and quiet. But now these leaders have been warned that the war guilty among them are to be tried and punished, and they realize that in many cases this punishment may mean execution. It is, therefore, natural that these men will attempt to persuade every living German that his or her life may be forfeited to the vengeful soldiery of their enemies if their country is invaded and conquered. By this token the Moscow conference should tend to prolong the war.

On the other hand, the German people—who are not fools—have been buoyed up by the undoubtedly much advertised hope of an Allied split. They doubtless have been told that by sustaining a delaying action they will win the war on the political field if not on the battlefield.

Death of Swine Laid To Broken Glass In Garbage

Lower Merion commissioners have taken steps to reduce the mortality rate among pigs who are feeding on garbage collected in the township.

The township's four garbage collectors have been complaining for sometime that their pigs have been dying at an unusual rate. Recently they had autopsies performed and discovered that many deaths were caused by punctured intestines. Pieces of tin, glass and stiff cardboard have been found in the garbage they feed the pigs.

The four garbage collectors are Louis Smith, Walsh Brothers, F. Blosinski and William Schrach.

Commissioners authorized the printing of cards for distribution to all homes. They read:

"The rules and regulations of the Township prohibit the placing of paper, cans, glass and other forms of rubbish in the garbage cans. Failure to comply with this regulation will result in suspension of the garbage collection service."

Hearing of the action taken by the commissioners one of the collectors said:

"War time is no time to waste good pork. Some people think we are raising goats instead of feeding pigs. This notice may make them stop the next time they want to throw a broken milk or whiskey bottle in the garbage."

Evan L. James, manager of the Township, said that the increased use of glass instead of tin containers was probably causing a lot of the trouble.

When Sincerely Convinced—Let Nothing Deter You

In 1890, Pat Higgins of Beaumont, Texas, had saved up his money, and wanted to start a brickyard. He decided to learn all that was possible about brick plants, so he made a trip North to study methods and machinery. Very sensible. While he was in Pennsylvania, he found a brickyard being heated by natural gas instead of by coal or wood, as most of them were. Cheaper, easier to handle.

When he got home he began to wonder if he couldn't heat his brick kilns by gas; and he told his friends so. They said the idea was ridiculous, that there was no natural gas in Texas. He let them laugh, while he sent to Washington to the government for a geological report of that district. He read it carefully, and wrote, asking more questions. An idea far bigger than gas hit him: there was oil under Beaumont. He told his friends. What! Oil under Beaumont? They had a good laugh.

He studied his reports; wrote more letters; got more information. Outside of Beaumont was a hill not as tall as the average house. It was called a hill because the rest of the land around there was so flat.

Pat Higgins decided that there was oil under the hill. When he told his idea the people laughed again. Why! He was getting crazier every day.

He believed so earnestly, so deeply, so enthusiastically, that he started out to get money to sink a well. Person after person turned him down. People began to avoid him. But at last he got two men to put up some money, and they started it three miles south of Beaumont with a ramshackle outfit that was meant to dig water wells.

The ancient machinery broke down. More laughter. But one day they didn't laugh. There was a mighty roar from the depths of the earth and tons of well pipe and machinery were tossed around like eggshells. Gas. A mighty geyser shot up and came down, slapped earth with a terrific roar. Petroleum. Crude oil. Gasoline.

A rush started. Beaumont boomed. Texas boomed. The incredible oil business in the United States was started. Of course there were others connected with the discovery and the promotion of this well, but Pat Higgins was the one whose faith brought it about.
